Punic Faith.

We understand you, Mr. Argus, perfectly. We have your measure, morally and intellectually. You are afraid of the "Jacksonian" which Smart, who stands in loco parentis to the bond-taxing heresy in this State, is about to establish in Lewiston. So you are galloping hard after him on the Via Dolorosa that leads to political death and posthumous dishonor. Heaven save you, unless you stop short in your rouge's march your mortal remains will be denied Christian burial.

Now mark how plain a tale shall put you down on this same cut-throat theory of bond-taxation. There is no promise to exempt the bonds, eh? Do not the greater part of them on their face promise to pay six per cent. interest? And did not the only practical scheme for their taxation ever presented provide that instead of six per cent. interest the Government would pay only five and four-tenths per cent., retaining the remainder as a tax? It the principle of taxation be admitted, what is to prevent retaining the whole at the Treasury as a tax?

It is no sort of use to try to make the principle of the income tax identical with a direct tax, retained at the Treasury, on the bonds or their coupons. The former applies equally to all income derived from all sources: the latter is an additional and unjustly discriminating tax on the coupons. The former applies to the interest on the bonds after it is separated from its relations to the national debt and becomes a part of the aggregate property of the bond-holder; the latter is a tax on the coupons by name and takes the form of sequestration of a part or a whole of the interest.

Go to! You are the enemy of the poor man. The two million five hunnred thousand poor men, orphans and widows, mentioned by Governor Seymour as compulsory holders of bonds at present prices, are more numerous by far than the capitalist bondholders. There are not so many capitalists in the country. The poor men and soldiers' and sailors' widows and orphans, according to Seymour and all others who have investigated the subject, hold the greater amount of the bonds. They are so numerous that the share of each does not amount to a great deal, but it often represents all their surplus earnings.

There is another consideration. If the bonds are taxed, the government in negotiating a new loan would be obliged to pay an additional interest on the same exactly equal to the amount of the tax. The whole effect of the taxation as a scheme for saving money would thus be practically nullified, or if it did amount to anything it would affect the poor man unfavorably. The additional interest to be raised by taxation would have to come from imports on imported goods and from excise duties.—These come ultimately from the consumers, the importers and manufacturers making it a practice to add to their prices the excise or impost duties that they pay.

Political Notes.

The Huntington (Pa.) Globe, always a Democratic paper, cannot swallow the New York platform and candidates. It says: "The Democracy have permitted the favorable opportunity to do their country a good service to pass, and if they remain out of power for the next twenty years it will be nothing more than they deserve. We can never help to raise to power leading rebels and their sympathizers."

The Democracy of Indiana are running for Lieutenant-Governor A. P. Edgerton, owner of $168,000 in Five-Twenties. Capt. Hays, Democratic candidate in the Xth Ohio District, is also a large holder of Government bonds, and the Democracy are reported as going for him. Consistent Democrats!

The Springfield Republican says: "The Copperhead sheet at Montpelier, the only one in the State, comes out with a caricature of Sumner embracing the first negro Congressman who arrives at Washington. It is a comfort to know that there will be a score of negroes sent to Congress before a Democrat goes from Vermont."

The London Economist says of the New York platform: "Nothing so decidedly secessionist in tendency has been put forth by nominal Unionists since the beginning of the war. Indeed, if Col. Blair's programme meant more than bluster, it would mean another war."

The Boston Post is made anxious by the question of a religious paper at Chicago: "Can a Democrat be saved?" It is a difficult problem, indeed; but if a Democrat will eschew the sins of his leaders, and neither drink like Blair nor lie like Seymour, there may be some hope for him.

At a Democratic ratification meeting held at a Virginia watering place on Saturday, where some twenty ex-confederate officers were present, it was resolved that the radicals in Congress could not carry out their measures without involving the country in another bloody and desolating war.

In his Gloucester speech Gen. Butler denounced the Democrats for calling Union soldiers who have settled in the South carpet-baggers. He suggests that a more appropriate name would be knapsackers since when they first went South they carried all they had with them, save their bullets, in that soldierly convenience.

A correspondent of the Meridian (Conn.) Republican says: In December, 1864, I was in New York stopping at the St. Nicholas Hotel. At 10 o'clock, p. m., I went into the dining room to get a cup of tea, and opposite me at the table sat two gentlemen. One of the gentlemen said to the other, "What do you think of Grant's campaign?" (The general was then before Richmond.) The reply was, "the most stupendous military failure in the world." "How long?," said the gentleman, "do you think the war will last?" "Four years longer," was the reply, "four years longer unless concessions are made to the South." I whispered in my waiter's ear: "Who is that gentleman?" indicating the one who had replied. He said, "Gov. Seymour." It was the only time I ever saw the gentleman, but the incident made so strong an impression on my mind that I made a note of it, and here for the first time reproduce it. It was not much from a private individual, and would only at that time have marked him as a notorious Copperhead. But now, as we are asked to make Gov. Seymour President, every incident becomes of consequence when it indicates his past character.

State Politics.

The Republicans of Aroostook County hold their Convention at Houlton day after to-morrow.

Gen. John F. Farnsworth, Member of Congress from Illinois, accompanied by Hon. John A. Peters, will speak at Newport on Thursday, Dexter on Friday and at Dover on Saturday.

The Republican meeting at Kenduskeag on Saturday was so large that, according to the Bangor Whig, no hall would hold it, and they were compelled to make an out-door affair of it. The speakers were Gen. Farnsworth, Hon. Hannibal Hamlin and Hon. John A. Peters.

We have a few fellows in Maine who have the genuine Bowery, negro-murdering, Ku-Klux spirit in them. The Waterville Mail says that, "Mr. Wilson, of Boston, a well known colored man, of considerable distinction as a public speaker, addressed an audience at Town Hall Thursday evening, on the subject of reconstruction; but with so much disturbance from a very few drunken and worthless fellows, with whom there was no police present to interfere, that he declined to proceed and withdrew." The Mail with commendable local pride insists that the rowdies were not residents of Waterville, but if that pleasant town does not contain a few of Seymour's "friends" it is almost the only one in the State that can boast of exemption from them.

The Lewiston Journal learns that Hon. Henry Tallman of Bath, a life long Democrat, has abandoned the Democratic party and supports Grant and Colfax. Col. F. D. Sewall who presided at the Republican meeting in Bath last week is another convert. George M. Weston of Bangor whose letter we publish elsewhere is another. S. D. Clay of Gardiner, a favorite Democratic stump speaker makes a fourth prominent Democrat in this State who is not in favor of Blair's rebellion. It would not be difficult to name others equally distinguished who have taken the same course.

"Warrington," the humorous Boston correspondent of the Springfield Republican speaks in a recent letter of two speakers much sought after by the Democrats of this State, as follows:

John Swift used to say, "I am no orator as Brewster is," and indeed few are equal to him. If you are within ten miles of him you are compelled to hear him, willy nilly. There is no escape from his voice, if there is from his argument. Groton Junction would be a good place for him to speak in. He could be heard in Concord, Ashburnham, Lancaster, and all round the lot without difficulty. I am told that Perrin, his only rival in the line, stumped Maine by finding the geographical centre and there holding a perpetual mass meeting. I should like to hear a match played between these two celebrated stumpists.

The Louisville Journal publishes a dispatch which declares that John Quincy Adams is making speeches with great success in Maine. This is news here, but there is better news that is true; Perrin is here mouthing about the "nigger," and Pendleton is coming to mouth about greenbacks. Between the two it is impossible to predict how high the Republican majority may mount.

"Dodifer," the entertaining Portland correspondent of the Lewiston Journal, is cruel enough to take up Mr. Shaw's case thus:

I have been thinking of nominating myself for Congress one of these days. I shall howl about "bloated bondholders" and unequal taxation, make a few speeches, have them printed and distributed in the small towns, present a few Sabbath school libraries and then declare that "although I do not covet the honor, I am ready to serve my country and proclaim the principles of the Democratic party in whatever situation my political friends may see fit to place me." The only trouble with me is that I served nine months in the army and fought and bled and died a little about Long Bridge in Washington. To be sure I didn't serve long, but the politicians will keep throwing it in my face. It is awful to attempt to creep up under such disadvantages. Going to Congress seems out of the question, but I shall try after Mr. Shaw gets through.

Gen. Butler Makes a Personal Explanation.

In a speech to his constituents delivered at Gloucester, Mass., on Saturday, Gen. Butler made the following personal explanation:

My enemies, your enemies, and the enemies of the country, as a means of sowing dissensions in the republican ranks, have told you that, because of personal differences upon military questions heretofore existing between the General of the Armies, whom you selected as your candidate for President, and myself, that I should swerve from that path of loyalty to the republican party and to the country which I had marked out for myself at the beginning of this contest seven years ago, and refuse to support that party in the coming election, or at least one of its nominees.

These slanderers mistake their man. I shall go as I began. When the first hostile gun was fired at the flag of the Union in '61, I marched among the earliest at the head of the men of Essex and Massachusetts for the suppression of the rebellion, and, until the country is restored to that place and prosperous tranquility which it is her destiny to enjoy, I shall still march on with the men of Essex and Massachusetts fighting the enemies of my country whenever and wherever found.

Not content, however, with their slanders, finding that I had never wavered in my support of the principles of the republican party, they next maligned both General Grant and myself by asserting that, to achieve some supposed personal advantage to each, an improper and unworthy agreement as to personal difficulties, some bargain such as they would have made had they been in our places, had been patched up between us, alike disgraceful to us both. I take pleasure in declaring to you, fellow-citizens, as well in behalf of General Grant as myself, that nothing of the kind has taken place. A difference in social life, merely, arising from misunderstanding, has been the subject of mutually satisfactory explanation. No more; no less. I shall advocate the election of Gen. Grant as the man selected by my party, whose patriotism, energy and success at the head of the armies of the United States, in destroying the rebellion in arms, give satisfactory assurance that he will be able, at the head of the Government, to resist this new phase of the rebellion transferred to civil life; and his administration devoted to such a patriotic work shall have the same cordial and hearty support from me that it would have were he my dearest personal friend.

However great or however varied the temptation to do otherwise, were it a thousand times ten thousand stronger than any slanderers have imagined it might have been, the nomination made and the platform of principles enunciated at New York, echoed and re-echoed by those who, for seven years of war and peril, have been the persistent enemies of the country, would have determined my action. In all the light in which I am capable of viewing this contest, no lover of his country can doubt as to his place. To meet this rebellion in its outset I broke all ties of party allegiance, endeared from the teachings of youth, and by the reflections of manhood, to enter the service of the country to maintain her unity, to sustain her integrity, to uphold and defend her Constitution in its true spirit of freedom and equality of rights to all—and, in my riper age, after seven years of endeavor to the best of my ability in her behalf, I cannot falter now. The issue is made up. Loyalty on the one side, rebellion and treason on the other.

No true man can hesitate. The North will again rise up as one man. The soldiers of the republic will march once more together to the rescue. The principles we have fought for shall never be dishonored. The flag we have loved and reverenced shall never trail in the dust. The cause of liberty, our cause, the cause of the country, the cause of the oppressed millions throughout the world, as in the past, so in the future, shall triumph more and more forever.

A MIDNIGHT MISSION IN YORK COUNTY.—We learn from a perfectly reliable source that the Democrats of York County, afraid "to face the music" before the people, do not intend to rely much upon public meetings in that vicinity. In lieu of speeches and the usual methods of political proselytism they will organize bands of missionaries, fellows who are adepts in the demagogue arts, whose business it will be to make personal appeals to the ignorant and unwary. This is undoubtedly their best policy. They never gained anything in the world by joining issue with their opponents and going into a fair and square discussion before the people. They are afraid. They do not like to have light and darkness contrasted under quite so favorable circumstances for instituting a comparison. So their Jacobites—men who are in favor of restoring the old Tory regime of class privilege and pro-slavery aristocracy—will sneak around in the night. If they can find a selfish narrow-minded bigot, they will inflame those disagreeable feelings by telling him the stale Democratic falsehoods. If they find a rascal, they are sure of making him a Democratic voter. Honest and patriotic men will attend the public meetings, read the newspapers, investigate political questions for themselves and vote the Republican ticket.

An Excited Elizabethan.

A correspondent residing in Cape Elizabeth who is not so well acquainted as we are with the altitude, the length and the breadth of the Argus' mendacity, gets excited over it, and regards its statements, Monday morning, in reference to the proceedings of the Cape Elizabeth Republicans on Saturday as exceptionally atrocious. He says that if Satan had entered that office, and spent Sunday in diabolical machinations, the father of lies himself would have failed to do his work so well as it was done for him with his indirect inspiration. Our correspondent avers, and he is corroborated by every person we have seen who attended the meeting Saturday evening, that what the Argus speaks of as "the tail end of a small meeting" was the largest public gathering ever seen in that town without any exception whatever. The flag raising at the end of Portland bridge spoken of by the Argus as "a fizzle" was altogether a private affair. The flag was purchased and raised by Mr. Fowler alone, though it is fully as large as the public Seymour and Blair flag purchased by the joint funds of the Democrats at that place.

The Tennessee election occurs day after to-morrow. The majority for Brownlow, Republican, last year was 52,000.

The Democratic Stampede.

ANOTHER PROMINENT DEMOCRAT FOR GRANT AND COLFAX.

George M. Weston of Bangor has for years been among the most prominent leaders of the Maine Democracy. Twice he has been their candidate for Congress from the Fourth District. On the 31 inst. he addressed a letter to Dr. J. M. Worth, of Ashboro, N. C., an old personal friend, from which we make the following extract, feeling sure that its arguments will strike our readers as perfectly conclusive:

But in practically dealing with affairs, we must take things as we find them. This reconstruction policy of Congress, strenuously as I resisted it, and obnoxious as it is to you, is an accomplished fact. The effects of it may be modified by events and the policy itself may be softened, with the gradual subsidence of the passions connected with the late struggle. But overthrown it cannot be, except by revolution, and another civil war, and the issues of the pending Presidential canvass are so made up as to present the question, necessarily overshadowing all others, whether the country is ready for so desperate a remedy as that for any grievances which exist.

The candidate of the Democratic party for the Vice Presidency, and who, if elected to that office will find between himself and the supreme executive power only the frail barrier of a single life, in his letter of the 30th of June last, declared:

"There is but one way to restore the government and the Constitution, and that is for the President elect to declare these acts [the reconstruction acts] null and void, compel the army to undo its usurpations at the South, disperse the carpet-bag State governments, allow the white people to reorganize their own governments and elect Senators and Representatives. We must have a President who will execute the will of the people by trampling into dust the usurpation of Congress known as the Reconstruction acts. I repeat that this is the real and only question which we should allow to control us. I wish to stand before the Convention upon this issue, but it is one which embraces everything of value in its large and comprehensive results."

Mr. Blair does not overstate the magnitude of the consequences involved in his presentation as a candidate for the Vice Presidency, and contingently for the Presidency, on such an issue as that. Indeed, it is impossible for anybody to overstate them. And if any doubt could remain as to the purpose of the leaders of a party nominating such a man and on the basis of such declarations, it is removed by the platform which they have adopted, in which the Reconstruction acts are denounced as "revolutionary, unconstitutional, null and void," thereby expressly justifying and inviting revolutionary resistance to them. As we now know, these incendiary words had a fitting origin in their committee on resolutions, in Gen. Wade Hampton of S. C., and he has told us how they were received in that body:

"When I proposed that, every single member of the committee—and the warmest men in it were the men of the North—came forward and said they would CARRY IT FORWARD TO THE END."

What that "end" is, it requires no prophet to foretell. New hecatombs of young men slain in battle, new conflagrations of cities and a ruined and finally dismembered country.

The assumption of the Democratic platform, that the Reconstruction acts are "null and void," has no shadow of fact or law to rest upon. Left as the Southern States were, without any civil governments which could be recognized as such, consistently with the result of the late war, it is plain that unless the work of reorganization was commenced within them by spontaneous popular movements, which were not possible without dangerous political commotions, it must have been commenced by some power outside of them, and that power could be no other than the Government of the Union. So President Lincoln understood it. So President Johnson understood it, and he proceeded accordingly to prescribe reorganization, regulating by executive proclamation who should vote and who should be excluded from voting in electing members of conventions to frame constitutions, and in ratifying or rejecting such constitutions when framed. Congress has done no more than that, and exercised no other power than that, and certainly if that power existed anywhere in the Federal Government, it existed in the law-making branch of it. Congress may not have exercised this power wisely, but their rightful authority in the premises is clear and unquestionable, and those who denounce their acts as "null and void," and counsel revolutionary resistance to them, are either thoughtless persons who know not what they do, or bold and bad men, fatally bent on mischief.

It is not in this second civil war, into which Mr. Blair and the Democratic platform seek to entice them, that the Southern States will find a remedy for the evils which they suffer. White immigration from Europe and the North which peace and quiet will invite, the higher rate of natural increase of whites as compared with blacks the diminution of the number of the disfranchised resulting slowly but surely from death, and the early removal of disfranchisements which is assured by such movements as we have just had reported from the Legislature of Georgia, will before long change the whole face of affairs. The antagonism of races will itself cease, when political contests cease to turn upon issues connected with the relative rights of races. The policy of Mr. Blair on the other hand, tends directly and inevitably to band and consolidate the blacks into a phalanx impenetrable upon every front. I see incredulous mischief in it, in all its aspects. The flag with which he marches at the head of the Democratic column is the black flag of discord and civil war for the country and war of races for the South. The mass of his misguided followers are honest and well intentioned, but it is none the less true that he is leading them in a broad and straight road to ruin.

My hope is, that the sober and discreet men of the South, whose counsels, like yours, would have saved it from the late war, will now avail to save it from this infinitely worse war, at once internal and external, portended by a final revolution, not so much originating your in section where the justifying grievances are alleged to exist, as instigated by political calculation elsewhere—a strange revolution, indeed, in behalf of Southern rights, in which "the warmest men are the men of the North," who are seeking, not the redress of wrongs, but the gratification of their lust of power, at the hazard of the ruin of the country.

Yours truly,
GEO. M. WESTON.

A BRILLIANT VISITOR.—A very brilliant meteor was observed to pass over this city on Sunday evening, a short time after sunset. It made its appearance at a point near the zenith and moved to the west, passing over a space of about fifteen degrees, when it disappeared. The sky was very clear, and though it was still quite light at the time, so much of the daylight still lingering that no stars had begun to appear, the brightness of this celestial visitor was quite dazzling. From the 10th to the 12th of August is one of the annual periods during which meteors are observed in great numbers.

State News.

ANDROSCOGGIN COUNTY.

The Lewiston Journal says a pretty shrewd game was played in that city some two weeks since. Parties from Carthage had attended the U. S. marshal sale of smuggled liquors at Portland and purchased a barrel of liquor for the town agency in Carthage, forwarded it by rail to that place. It was taken out at the Androscoggin Depot in this city, when a woman appeared, paid the freight on it and took it away—the freight agent supposing it all right, as she called for it in an apparently good faith. The liquor not appearing at Carthage it was traced to this city, and the owners were much astonished to find the empty barrel at the station, where it had been secretly returned.

The Lewiston Journal says Almeda, the daughter of Alexander Hodgdon, became suddenly crazed a few days since, and was so wild and unmanageable that she was removed to the Insane Asylum at Augusta, on Thursday. She has been for some time melancholy over disappointment connected with her school prospects.

AROOSTOOK COUNTY.

The Voice says a son of Roger Rowe, of Sherman, six years old, fell into a well some sixteen feet deep, the other day. He had been missing about half an hour when search was made for him. He was discovered paddling about down in the well, taking a cool bath. The next day he was about as usual.

We learn from the Voice that bears are rather too familiar in Sherman. In the Golden Ridge neighborhood they have taken a half dozen sheep, and have been seen near the buildings in several instances.

City Affairs.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Common Council was held last evening.

The President being absent F. N. Dow, Esq., was elected President pro tem.

Papers from the Board of Aldermen were voted upon in concurrence, except that the name of the new street to be opened from Congress street to Turner street was changed in this Board from Fessenden to Cleaves.

On the report of the Committee on Streets, an order was passed permitting C. W. Cahoon, Esq., to use his "Patent Steam Engine Fire Propelling Carriages by the use of hot water" upon the track of the Portland Horse Railroad from Preble street to Westbrook, for the purpose of testing the practicability of said engine for city street cars. The Committee on Streets &c. are empowered to stop the use of said engine within the city limits if, after such trial, they find it dangerous or troublesome to the city.

An order passed for paving Commercial street between Custom House wharf and Portland Pier, providing the expense shall not exceed the sum of $1300.

The order authorizing the Committee on Streets, &c., to furnish parties who desire Talay sidewalks of the Scrimshaw patent concrete pavement the proportionate amount of aid in the material used in the construction of said pavement, as is now furnished by the city to parties constructing sidewalks of bricks and sand; provided the committee shall be satisfied that the concrete sidewalk is suitable for the city and can be furnished at a cost not exceeding that of brick sidewalks, was taken from the table and passed.

The report of the Committee on Laying out New Streets, adverse to the extension of Congress place to Deering street was tabled.

The order in relation to building a draw in Vaughan's bridge was tabled.

The order for raising funds to pay the awards of referees for land damages was passed over, the requisite number of members for its passage not being present.

Orders presented and referred—Of Ira Berry for permission to remove three shade trees in front of a house he has purchased on Brown street—said trees being so near the house and the foliage so dense as to be injurious to the house and prejudicial to the health as well as comfort of the inmates. Of C. W. Clark & als. for the opening and extending of Spruce street from Emery to Thomas street; of S. H. Sawyer for remuneration for damage to his property by lowering the grade of Cumberland street; of St. John Smith & als. for a hearing in behalf of the Atlantic & St. Lawrence Railroad Co.; of the Machigonne and Eastern Star Encampments that the expenses of the City Hall on the 22d of July may be remitted.

Orders passed—Directing the Committee on Judicial Proceedings to ascertain upon what terms the claim of Lewis Mitchell can be settled; directing the same committee to ascertain upon what terms the claims of F. W. Clarke against the city can be settled; authorizing the special committee on Union wharf to cause that part of the wharf that is to be removed to be removed by contract or otherwise; authorizing the location of an alarm box in the vicinity of the Forest City Sugar Refinery Adjourned.

A MAGNIFICENT STOVE.—At the store of Messrs. O. M. & D. W. Nash, No. 6 Exchange street, may be seen for a short time the magnificent "Peerless" cooking stove that took the medal at the Paris Exposition, where some seventy or eighty specimens of stoves and ranges were exhibited. It is finished in the highest degree of art and shines like a mirror. All the ladies who see it fall in love with it. The edges are steel finished, the water tank and hot closet are silver plated, the teakettle is of burnished copper, the iron pots are enamelled inside, and pokers, cover-lifters, &c., of burnished steel with rosewood handles and plated trimmings. Those who wish to see to what perfection ornamented iron casting can be brought should take a look at this stove, which, as it now stands on exhibition, seems more suitable for the drawing room than for the practical uses of the kitchen.

The advantages claimed for this stove are: an equal temperature in all parts of the oven, so that no article while baking or roasting requires to be changed or turned—the roasting being done by a rotary spit; a great saving in the amount of fuel required for baking; complete ventilation of the oven, and a current of heated air constantly passing through it; a new method of conveying air upon the fire; baking articles on the oven rack at the same time the oven bottom is employed in baking or roasting; wood or coal can be used with equal facility, with many other improvements. One needs to look at it to judge of its excellence and capacity.

In addition to the first grand prize at the Paris Exposition, the "Peerless" has received the first prize at the American Institute in 1867; the first prize at the Louisiana State Fair of 1867; a gold medal at the great Mechanics and Agricultural Fair of January, 1868, and a dozen other prizes at State and County Fairs.

EXCURSION OF THE P. M. B's.—The Portland Mechanic Blues, Captain Parker, will make an excursion to Gorham to-morrow with the Portland Band, leaving in the cars at a quarter after seven o'clock, A. M. At Gorham they will receive the escort of the citizens, and then, under the escort of Relief Engine Co, Captain Summerside, will march to Rust's Grove. At nine o'clock they will march from the grove through the principal streets in the city to the soldier's monument, where, after prayer, some remarks will be made by Captain Parker. The band will play a dirge, and there will be other exercises. The company will then fire three volleys in honor of the brave soldiers to whose memory the monument was erected.

After the exercises at the monument, the company will return to the grove, where dinner will be served, and where amusements will take place. At five o'clock the Blues will go through the dress parade at the village, after which the company will march to the depot and return home in a special train at six o'clock.

THE PORTLAND & OGDENSBURG RAILROAD. A correspondent says the towns of Cornish, Baldwin, Denmark, Hiram and Brownfield will hold their meetings to vote on the question of taking stock in the Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad next week. He has no doubt that every town will vote to take their five per cent., provided the road shall be located so as to accommodate their several towns. There was a good meeting at Cornish on Saturday, which was addressed by Major Hastings of Fryeburg and Gen. Anderson of Portland. After the speaking a vote was taken, and the voters pledged themselves unanimously to support the proposition to take their five per cent. at their town meetings to be held next week, on condition that the road shall be located through their towns.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The wife of Mr. George Waterhouse, of this city, died very suddenly Monday morning at the Commercial House, where they boarded. The health of Mrs. W. had, apparently, been very good, when on Sunday evening while she was riding out with her husband she was attacked by paralysis. She was taken to her room and the best medical skill was summoned, but without avail. Her spirit passed away about four o'clock Monday morning.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.—We learn that Mr. Wm. Moles, depot master at the Portland & Kennebec Railroad, died very suddenly yesterday from cholera morbus. He was out on Sunday afternoon. People cannot be too careful during this warm season in regard to their diet and should not indulge themselves in partaking to excess.

ARRIVAL OF DREDGING MACHINES.—Two tugs arrived here yesterday, towing two dredging machines, from Philadelphia. The contract for dredging the middle ground of our harbor was taken at 34 cents per squre yard, and the contractors who resides in Philidelphia have sent on the machines, and the work will commence forthwith, under direction of Gen. Thom.

PANORAMA OF THE WAR.—We commend the closing exibition of this most instructive and interesting exhibition to the liberal patronage of our citizens. It is a most meritorious and unexceptionable amusement, commanding the interest of its audience from the first to the last scene partly aided by the lucid and admirable delineations of the accomplished speaker Miss Sallie Brownson Goodrich.

A Marginal Street and Railway.

MR. EDITOR,—Two grand facts put it in the power of Portland to be one of the great export and import centers of the country. First, its geographical position—at once nearer to the marts of Europe than is Boston or New York, and nearer the outlet of the great lakes—makes it the natural port of entry and discharge to 300,000 square miles of highly productive territory situated upon the Lakes.

Secondly, Portland can compete successfully for the carrying trade of this vast area, in virtue of its remarkably favorable local conditions. The city is well nigh surrounded by water. For a very important part of its entire circuit, the depth of water is sufficient at all stages of the tide for ships of the largest draft. The several bays constituting its great natural wet docks are of ample size for an indefinite number of craft. They are readily accessible one from another and from the open main. As respects anchorage ground, exposure to ocean swell, and other conditions, these great roadsteads compare on favorable terms with the very best.

As our position will inevitably bring freight here, so our local conditions will enable us to handle that freight with economy. This great advantage we are already experiencing. Commercial street with its double railway tracks, embranching upon our wharves and piers, and facilitating the transfer of goods direct from car platforms to ships' decks, is the prime element of our strength in this department of industry.

A prudent forecast demands, accordingly, that, with a view to the accommodation of the freight that must find its exit from this port, a marginal thoroughfare, continuous with Commercial, East Commercial and West Commercial streets, be laid out entirely around the city. Let us look into the details a little.

Commercial and West Commercial streets from Vaughan's bridge to India street have a length of 609.6 rods, all laid out and all constructed, and all abutting upon water front. So much, then, of the marginal street is already done.

From Commercial street at the foot of India street to the foot of D street at Fish Point, is a distance of 225.6 rods. For a part of this distance the line of the marginal street could probably be made to coincide with the line of Fore street. From the foot of Mumford street to the Victoria wharves, the city has already paid for the construction of a street, the road bed now being occupied by the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railroad. The whole distance of 225.6 rods is bounded by water front.

East Commercial street from the foot of Danforth street around Munjoy to Washington street is 312 rods long. This has water front in its whole extent, also the deepest water and the most extensive accommodations for wharves and docks to be found on our whole shore line. The larger proportion of the East Commercial harborage lies below bridges, is comparatively unobstructed with ice, and is by far the best lying ground for large shipping in all our surrounding waters, there being next to no swell from the ocean. The city now owns the right of way over the whole distance, having come into possession of it by gift of the proprietors, and has laid out the street.

From Washington street at Back Cove bridge along the channel of Back Cove to Deering's bridge is a distance of 353.2 rods, and this upon the filling of the flats will be the length of water front, and of roadway as proposed. The right of way for this distance will not cost the city a dollar, provided the laying out be done at once, before improvements have been made. The proprietors will give outright a hundred feet in width to the city for the purpose of the marginal street. This water front can all be made of value for commercial purposes. Indeed 600 feet above Back Cove bridge there is at dead low water a channel depth of twenty feet, and the channel at the bridge is 600 feet wide. The bottom of the cove is of dredgible material, which can be applied to filling the flats out to the harbor commissioner's line, and many acres of land made at an expense not materially greater than has been incurred heretofore for making the "Dump" lands, namely seven cents per superficial foot. Draws of modern construction upon the bridges below will enable sailing craft and steamers to pass through at full speed, a signal of two or three minutes only being necessary. The harborage thus secured will be for ten months of the year equal to that upon Commercial street, for certain uses, and will be a valuable addition to our commercial facilities. The work of dock and land construction above referred to, will of course be done by the proprietors.

From Deering's bridge through the mill pond to the city farm, around the west end of the city, part of the way on the abandoned track of the K. & P. R. R., to a point near Fore river, is a distance of 362 rods, with water front. A portion of the track referred to, however, being contiguous to the fresh water Basin, would form most admirable sites for various manufactories, those especially using considerable quantities of water.

From the aforesaid point near Fore river, to Vaughan's bridge at the west end of West Commercial street, is a distance of 190 rods, all of it bounded by water front susceptible of improvement.

We have the following summary:

|---|---|
| Total circuit of the city, | 6.42 miles. |
| Marginal street already laid out, | 3.04 " |
| " " " " constructed, | 1.9 " |
| " " " to be laid out, | 3.38 " |
| " " " " constructed, | 4.52 " |
| Total length of water front, | 5.3 " |
| Water front now improved, | 1.92 " |
| Additional water front to be secured by the proposed improvement, | 3.38 " |
| Length of land front for completion of the proposed improvement, | 1.2 " |

Five and three-tenths miles of water front and all within so small a compass! All of it by the fortunate configuration of our territory susceptible of being connected together by an inexpensive circuit of road and railway. The contemplated street should be laid out in all parts 100 feet wide with room for a double rail track upon which freight from whatever quarter arriving, can be carried to any required point of discharge or departure.

As a part of this system of local improvement we need, as has already been suggested in your columns, a central passenger railway station, to and from which arrivals and departures shall be made by all railroad wayfarers. The location already designated by your former correspondent for such a common point of convergence, namely the "Dump," is unquestionably the best within our limits. A station in common would be as much for the interest of the roads as for the convenience of their patrons. Is there any reason why a motion in this direction can not be made at once, and before any new passenger depots are erected by and for particular corporations?

All that is ask ed of the city for the present, is, that it lay out the marginal thoroughfare. It can be done vastly cheaper now than a few years hence. Once laid out the grade of our cross streets and improvements of whatever character can be adjusted thereto. Any railway proposing to locate its freight stations within our borders, would find its problem comparatively cleared up by the adoption of the marginal street as a part of the settled road policy of the city. The street being once laid out, its construction may be deferred for years, if necessary, and yet, all the time, adjunct and collateral improvements be shaping themselves with reference to its final realization.

It is my opinion, however, that the road should be not only laid out, but that a portion of it should be speedily constructed. By a recent vote we put $750,000 into a railroad. That road must have its terminus upon navigable waters with room adjacent for great wharves and docks. As matters now stand, there is no chance for it within our limits. Yet upon our northeast front is a site of unexceeded and scarcely paralleled excellence for the purpose. But it is at present inaccessible from Commercial street. Without the completion of a road way around Fish Point it could not be advantageously occupied for the purpose referred to. The only alternative is Cape Elizabeth; and one other example would be afforded of the investment of Portland capital for the benefit of other towns.

Boston, whose prospects of increased railway connections and traffic are not brighter than ours, is now proceeding to carry out her projected scheme of a Grand Junction Railway, uniting the several lines centering in her limits, and proposes to bring into use a great water front at South Boston, filling in flats 900 acres in extent, with projecting piers each 300 feet wide, the material to be drawn entirely from dredging the main ship channel.—Whether we proceed or not to the actual building of this marginal street at present, or of any part of it, there can be no question that judicious economy requires its speedy laying out.

RUNAWAYS.—A horse belonging to Mr. Geo. Burnham, while left on Federal street yesterday afternoon, took fright and started up town at a rapid pace. On the way he frightened another horse, which in turning a corner upset the express wagon to which he was attached, throwing out the seat and doing other damage as he ran down one of the cross streets. Mr. Burnham's horse went to his stable without injuring the carriage, after creating a sensation among the pedestrians along his route

Mr. Black's residence was then visited to serve an attachment on his furniture. The shipments of coal from Port Richmond during the past week were very small, amounting to 19,416 tons, and the quantity shipped this week will be materially less. There is some Franklin and some Coal being received at Port Richmond, but little Coal is produced in Schuylkill coal mines, and is eagerly sought after by the line and city trade. The iron furnaces are clamoring some relief, a few collieries having started at eight hours, and several at the old time wages. ## Poetry.

Croquet.

A Painter must that poet be,
And lay with brightest hues his pallet,
Who'd be the bard of Croquet'rie
And sing the joys of hoop and mallet.

Given a level lawn in June,
And six or eight enthusiastic,
Who never miss their hoops or spoon,
And are on duffers most sarcastic;

Given the girl whom you adore—
And I given, too, that she's your side on:—
Given a game not too soon o'er,
And ne'er a bore the lawn espied on;

Given a claret cup as cool
As ample Wenham ice can make it;—
Given a code whose every rule
Is so defined that none can break it;

Given a very fragrant weed—
Given she doesn't mind your smoking;
Given the players take no heed,
And most discreetly keep from joking:

Given all these—and I proclaim,
Be fortune friendly or capricious—
Whether you win or lose the game—
You'll find that Croquet is delicious.

Its abundant sugar raisins it in-doors or on the vine; is a great grower and bearer, now contains 146 clusters of bloom; is very compact in cluster at the East, which is an advantage in marketing. We have not known the foliage to mildew. It succeeds in dry and very wet soil. Is a seedling of the Delaware, crossed with the Diana, and better than either. Ripens before the Hartford, therefore, the earliest, hardiest and best variety. No. 1, one year, $5 each, in advance. Orders filled in rotation, while supply lasts. No charge for packing.
